

USE OF CAMPUS PLAYING FIELDS

Frostburg State University encourages the student's educational program which includes acquisition of knowledge and skills that promote physical and mental well-being throughout life. Participation in recreational (sport) clubs, intramural activities and intercollegiate athletics contribute to that appreciation for life-long well-being.

The goal of reasonable access by students to University facilities, while valid in most circumstances, is restricted with regard to University playing fields due to both a limited number of fields and a short growing season for field recuperation.

Consequently, while the University encourages recreational (club) sports by students, such sports may not be conducted using University playing fields.
