RESIDENCE HALL CONTRACT

Students who live in university residence halls must sign a contract. The contract is binding for one academic year and will be valid if the individual is returning to Frostburg State University as a student during the spring semester.

Students who choose to live in the residence halls are provided a Residence Hall Guide which provides general information pertaining to rules, regulations, and expectations of students in the halls. Students are held responsible for abiding by the policies of the contract and all other regulations of the University.
